Permission to reproduce items where third-party owned material protected by copyright is included has been sought and cleared where possible. Every reasonable effort has been made by the publisher (UCLES) to trace copyright holders, but if any items requiring clearance have unwittingly been included, the publisher will be pleased to make amends at the earliest possible opportunity.

To avoid the issue of disclosure of answer-related information to candidates, all copyright acknowledgements are reproduced online in the Cambridge Assessment International Education Copyright Acknowledgements Booklet. This is produced for each series of examinations and is freely available to download at www.cambridgeinternational.org after the live examination series.

St. Martin Tourism

St. Martin is a country in the Caribbean.

St. Martin was one of the many Caribbean countries devastated by Hurricane Irma in 2017.

Tourism to St. Martin was also badly affected by Hurricane Irma. The country's infrastructure was destroyed and therefore airports, accommodation, roads, seaports, beaches, restaurants and attractions all needed to be rebuilt.

The island has been steadily rebuilding its tourism infrastructure. Tourists are being encouraged back to St. Martin even though there is still plenty to repair and rebuild. It is expected that the return of tourists will provide the government and tourism organisations with the income needed to rebuild the destination.

The National Tourism Organisation (NTO) is promoting to their main source markets, focusing on the warm welcome offered throughout the island and that they still have plenty to offer tourists.
