Listen to the following interview with Ruby Chandra, a young international tennis player, and then fill in the details below.

You will hear the interview twice.

[f/x Short lead-in sports-programme theme music...]

- *V1 Good evening and welcome to "Sports Choice". Last week we were talking about the importance of cricket and next week we will be looking at football. Tonight though Ruby Chandra has come to talk to us about her tennis career. Ruby, welcome.
- V2 Thank you, it's always good to talk about tennis, my favourite sport of course.
- V1 Tell us about your background.
- V2 I was born on May 10th 1981 in Louisiana in the USA. I've lived there most of my life. I played tennis often as a child – but at 15 I became professional.
- V1 That is very young. What happened next?
- V2 I did well and soon was one of the top women players.
- V1 In the USA do you mean?
- V2 Well I was once ranked sixth in the world. Three years ago I nearly won the Australian Open tennis tournament, you know.
- V1 How wonderful. You must have to maintain your fitness all the time.
- V2 Yes and that is difficult. Unfortunately I have had a few problems with my left knee. I had one operation on it only to be told I needed another one. In the end I had nearly 18 months off from professional tennis playing. It was very frustrating watching all the matches I should have been playing in on television.
- V1 But you have made a comeback.
- V2 I hope so. I started playing again at the beginning of this year.
- V1 So what is your ambition now that you're fit again?
- V2 To win Wimbledon, the top competition in Great Britain of course. I was beaten in the fourth round the last time I took part.
- V1 You hold a record, don't you?
- V2 Yes. The longest women's singles match – 3 hours and 45 minutes in 1998.
- V1 And you do a lot of charity work?
- V2 Yes – I do think it's important to give time and money to supporting sports charities.

	IGCSE EXAMINATIONS - JUNE 2004	0310	4

- V1 So what would you say was your inspiration for tennis then?
- V2 My parents. They made me believe that everyone can make a difference to the world and play a positive role in the community.
- V1 Ruby, thank you so much – more news and updates on the tennis scene on our website www.playtennis.com. **

Part 2 Exercise 2 (Question 8)

Listen to the following interview with the director of an international airport in India, and then complete the details below.

You will hear the interview twice.

- *V1 Hello and welcome to India International Airport where I'm talking to Mr Lim, its director. Mr Lim, your airport has a lovely motto, is that the secret of your success?
- V2 Yes indeed. Our mission is: "Progress through excellence and customer satisfaction" so it means if we offer top quality flights and services our customers will keep coming back and telling others about how good we are and therefore we will progress further. It's a kind of circle – I hope we are also flexible enough to change with the times and adapt to the needs of our modern customers.
- V1 Has your airport always been so good?
- V2 Yes, but it was very small when it started. The airport has been here since the start of flying. Remember the Wright brothers? They flew a distance of 120 feet in 12 seconds in 1903 and started the whole business of aviation off. Soon the first aircraft – the Pushmoth – had been invented and in 1932 it landed here, the beginning of our great airport of today!
- V1 Incredible. So then the air industry expanded very fast I should think and your airport with it.
- V2 Yes, during wartime the airport was only used for military purposes. But in the last 30 years air traffic has increased so much that a new international terminal had to be built. Nowadays 2.3 million domestic travellers are handled in our airport – that's a lot of people!
- V1 Yes it is – but that's not all is it?
- V2 No, there is the whole huge cargo section. We move cargo all around the world, punctually and safely. Do you know we handle nearly a billion tonnes of cargo?
- V1 And have you won an award for being environmentally friendly?
- V2 Yes, our quality control and monitoring of fumes and noise emissions are very good and we try and keep the whole site clean and pleasing to the eye.
- V1 I am sure the passengers appreciate that.
- V2 Yes, because travel by air can be comfortable or upsetting and a lot of that depends on which airport you leave from or arrive at and how you the passenger are treated. To achieve that we have built in extra waiting lounges with comfortable seats and coffee bars serving fresh, fragrant brews for the tired traveller.
- V1 That sounds good. You also have a flight school I believe?

Page 12	Mark Scheme	Syllabus	Paper
	IGCSE EXAMINATIONS - JUNE 2004	0310	4

V2 Yes, although nowadays that has developed into a small aircraft industry whereby businesses may hire a small private plane from us plus pilot. It's very successful and constantly in demand – we use “King Air” aircraft for this and for that short time its passengers really are kings of the air!

V1 And you do a lot of good for your community?

V2 Certainly. A long time ago we formed a group of friends and family of airport personnel. They help in our community and set up projects funded by us, such as adult education for example, or running a kindergarten. When our country is faced by natural disasters such as floods this group is always there, ready and willing to help.

V1 That is very reassuring. One last question Mr Lim. There will soon be a rail connection to the airport, won't there?

V2 Yes – it's under construction and when it's completed it'll help us to maintain our aim of excellent service to our customers.

V1 Mr Lim, thank you very much for speaking to us.**

Part 3 Exercise 1 (Question 9)

Listen to the following interview about boosting the immune system and then indicate whether each statement is true or false by putting a tick in the appropriate box.

You will hear the interview twice.

[f/x Bar of intro 'documentary' theme tune]

- *V1 Hello and welcome to "Health File". Do you know people who seem to always be fit and well? They never seem to succumb to illness and so are able to cope so well with life's demands. Here is Dr Steve Imal who has researched all of this in many different countries and situations, to tell us how we can all achieve this!
- V2 Yes. It is all to do with the state of your immune system – which is what stops you becoming ill.
- V1 How?
- V2 Your immune system is very complex. It works using lots of different organs and tissues and is the defence against intruders, which might cause illness.
- V1 Intruders?
- V2 Yes – germs, bacteria, anything which might make us ill – our immune system sends out armies of white cells to kill the threatening bacteria.
- V1 That sounds easy.
- V2 It's not that easy – you have to keep to a certain lifestyle to achieve that.
- V1 You mean no caffeine, eat organic foods...
- V2 Yes, but poor diet, lack of sleep, not enough exercise – they all prevent our immune system from doing its best for your health.
- V1 Oh dear, anything else?
- V2 Yes, stress and pollution both play an enormous part in the functioning of our immune system. Haven't you ever found if you are really tired and overloaded with work with no time to eat that you immediately catch a cold or flu?
- V1 Yes, it happens often – so how can I become fit and well then? What is the secret?
- V2 Eat fresh fruit and vegetables and foods that are rich in iron and vitamins – not refined or processed foods, like sugar, for example. A teaspoon of sugar reduces the response of white cells to infection by 50% and what is worse this effect lasts for 5 hours.
- V1 You mean eat fresh produce and basic foodstuffs – not items that have been factory processed.
- V2 Exactly. And you must make sure that you do some regular exercise each day.

Page 14	Mark Scheme	Syllabus	Paper
	IGCSE EXAMINATIONS - JUNE 2004	0310	4

- V1 Walking up the stairs to work – not the lift? Or walking from the train to the office?
- V2 Not quite because you don't do either of those for long enough to do any good. What you need to do is go swimming each day or take a walk or play tennis perhaps – you must make time for this as your health depends on it.
- V1 How does regular exercise actually help the immune system?
- V2 It makes your blood circulate faster and helps oxygen get to your bodies' cells more efficiently. This in turn makes you more resistant to viruses and infections.
- V1 OK – I will do more exercise but what did you mean about stress weakening our resistance to disease?
- V2 Scientific studies show us that positive attitudes and happiness boost your immune system while being angry for 5 minutes weakens it. People with a busy social life are 4 times less likely to catch a cold.
- V1 How can that be, though?
- V2 There is a biological reason – if you are anxious your body will send out stress hormones, which overwhelm the immune system with panic responses. So try and relax, enjoy life and laugh more.
- V1 Thank you doctor for your advice!**

R1 Part 3

Part 3 Exercise 2 (Question 10)

Listen to the following talk about learning to climb mountains, and then answer the questions below.

You will hear the talk twice.

*V1 Hello, I'm Tandy Smith and today I'm going to encourage you to achieve your dreams and ambitions. As a small child I always wanted to be able to climb mountains and once went on a school rock-climbing trip which left me clinging terrified to a barren mountainside...

I'm in my twenties now and much braver than I was. So, determined to achieve my dream of mountain climbing, I set off for a training centre in the mountains of North Wales. The instructors put my mind at rest immediately with their positive "you can do it" attitudes and helpful words of encouragement. So much so that on the first training session I was 30 metres up a rock face and actually felt relaxed enough to stop and admire the view. I must add that my instructor Danielle was right there adjusting my harness and tightening up ropes all the time so that I felt safe. Without all these safety details I'm sure I would have fallen off lots of times. The more I climbed the greater my confidence became. Other instructors were shouting encouragement from above and below me and they told me where my next foothold was and where to put my trembling fingers for the safest climb. Of course another advantage is that the air is so pure up a mountain, unlike the inner city air where I live – it feels so healthy and worthwhile.

I reached the top of my first climb and then going down was so easy – I abseiled. That means you jump off backwards using the ropes and walk back down to the ground – actually it is not as easy as it sounds.

I can understand why professional mountain climbers are so passionate about their sport and why they go on and on accepting more increasingly difficult challenges. Climbing is not just about being physically fit – you also have to be quick thinking and fast to react to unforeseen situations. You have to think about every move you make. You have a wonderful sense of achievement when you are safely back on the ground having conquered your personal "Everest" no matter how high or low it might be.

I would really encourage you to try mountain climbing and to learn this skill at a climbing centre with proper instructors. Climbing centres have plenty of graded climbs for beginners onwards. You never know: you could even become a trainer yourself one day and teach others how to climb with pleasure and safety.**
