Unfortunately our holidays were over. We had spent a superb week in the Loire where the scenery was wonderful and we were far from the noises of the town. The only thing that we heard during the night was the animals in the farms!

On the morning of our departure, we got up early and had breakfast. We put all the luggage in the car and we left the house at ten o'clock. We had a long journey to make and we had to be at the port before the end of the afternoon to get the boat.

After travelling for some time, we realised that the cars were moving more slowly and we could see that there was a traffic jam. Then we stopped completely. We were starting to worry as we did not want to miss the boat.

Half an hour later, we were extremely relieved to see that the traffic problem had disappeared and my father was able to drive quite quickly. As there remained only three hours before our departure, we were very pleased.

When we arrived at an important crossroads, we made a stupid mistake and soon we were totally lost. However, when we consulted the map, we found the right road and we managed to reach the port just in time. In the future, we will leave much earlier!
